ACTIVITIES

Use this section to highlight your relevant passions, activities, and how you like to give back. It's good to include Leadership and volunteer experiences here. Or show off important extras like publications, certifications, languages and more.

Chronological Resume is the most common format used. It starts with your most recent employment/education.

It is easy to write and has clarity in information that the employer wants to know.

2) FUNCTIONAL RESUME

A Functional Resume is creative/Non-Conventional. It is useful for the people with fewer years of experience who want to make a career change. It does not focus on job titles and previous employment details. It focuses on knowledge, skills, and abilities. It works well for the people who have worked in multiple job profiles, not related to each other.

- This is the place for a brief summary of your key responsibilities and most stellar accomplishments.

JOB TITLE 2 | COMPANY | DATES FROM - TO

- This is the place for a brief summary of your key responsibilities and most stellar accomplishments.

3) COMBINATION RESUME

It is a combination of both chronological and functional resume.

It is most useful for people who have learnt their skills from unrelated sectors and would like to emphasize it.

The benefit of combination resume is that it shows best features of both formats: work history and achievements

DO'S AND DONT'S

DO's	DONT's
Customize your resume to the sector you are applying to.	Don't exceed 2 pages
First page should catch the attention of the interviewer	Don't exceed 3 to 5 bullets per section
Use bullets instead of paragraphs	Don't make spelling and grammar mistakes
Maintain standard space between sections	Don't use jargon specially acronyms that are proprietary

Use keywords that can be read by all machine	Don't include your photo unless specified by the company
Use formal, readable fonts	Don't paste a disclaimer until advised by the company
Use font size 12-14	Don't copy the objective summary from the internet. Let it be your own.

CONCLUSION

A Resume prepares you for your job interview by forcing you to think about and express yourself in an organized way. It's not about including everything, It's about including the right things depending on the job requirements.
